And tonight, an American original is under fire! Burger King, home of the whopper accused of doing something a lot of Americans question: Defecting heading north of the border to Canada and saving a lot of tax money! So what's the truth of what they are doing? ABC's Chief Business Correspondent Rebecca Jarves tracked down the CEO with the questions tonight!

Burger King, the company founded in 1957 in Miami, will now combine with Canadian donut giant Tom Hortons, becoming the world's third largest fast food company with more than 18,000 restaurants worldwide! "Why is Burger King doing this? Well, sales haven't been great! Sales have been about flat for the last couple of years! And Tim Hortons is the biggest coffee player in Canada!" But they'll also pay lower taxes, a point we pressed today with the CEO! "How much over the next ten years, Burger King expects to save on its taxes? Tax really wasn't the driver for this deal!"

Burger makes about 1 billion dollars a year in sales! Analysts say by moving to Canada, it could save as much as 50 million dollars on taxes! The US has the highest corporate tax rate in the world, 39%. Canada's just 26%. Burger King like many companies pays below the US rate! But in moving to Canada, gets an even a better deal! Americans outraged on line! The president earlier this summer criticized companies for relocating! "My attitude is I don't care if it's legal, it's wrong!" Fearing backlash, drug store chain Walgreens recently walked away from a similar deal to move overseas!

But helping finance this deal, billionaire investor and friend of the White House Warren Buffet who famously complained that billionaire shouldn't pay lower taxes than average Americans! But this is not just about Burger King! We've seen a sizable increase in US companies relocating to foreign addresses to save on their taxes. And it comes at a price! It could cost the US as much as 19 billion dollars, Diane, over 10 years, if this continues to happen!
